OIL LAND HEARINGS | ARGENTINA TRYING GO TO WASHINGTON

Pacific for Many Millions · Far From Its End.

Testifies Company Sold Almost Half of Its Grants at Low Prices.

Appointment of former Judge D. E. Payson to the legal staff of the Southern Pacific Company after his retirement from Congress, where he had particl- be ccappleted shortly. pated in the enactment of the statute of Two methods are under consideration

Payson had been made because of his Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan representative of his uncle, the tate Colling P. Huntington, who preceded E. H.

Harriman as president of the road, was interest in the financial condition of Arcalled by the defendants to prove that they possessed no knowledge of the presence of oil in the San Joaquin Valley, in California, before their grants were obtained by the defendants to prove that a large South American trade, such

He explained that prior to the Harriman regime, when the first inkings of the value of the land reached officials of the company, their policy had been to sell all that was not actually needed for operating purposes. By these sales practically 40 per selections. The probably would be of $30,000,000 or less, certainly not more.

Amination of Charles H. Markham, president of the Illinois Central Railroad, who was general manager of the Southern Pacific prior to 1904. Mr. Markhams career with the company was remarkable. Beginning as a section hard markable. Beginning as a section hand on the Santa Fe in 1881, he worked his way through practically every depart-

His testimony, like that of previous witnesses called by the defendant, was devoted to a denial of any knowledge of the value of the San Jonquin property as oil land until eight years after the obtaining of the grants.

With the termination of its activities here the court which has been trying the Government's suit for more than a year past, moves on to Washington, D. C., where the defendants' counsel will call more witnesses. In the course of the trial Judge Bledsoe, whose home is in Los Angeles, has travelled many thou-sands of miles, and he will probably travel many more before the complicated questions involved have been settled.

POLICEMAN OFFERS ALIBI.

Bornkessel Testifies in Assault Ac tion Involving a Girl.

Andrew Bornkessel, the policeman who, Andrew Bornkessel, the policeman who, with William Loeb, also a policeman, is on trial in General Sessions before Judge McIntyre charged with having attacked a fourteen year old girl in the apartments of Ruth Howard, took the witness stand yesterday and swore that on October 1, the day of the assault, he remained at his home. Testimony to this effect had been given by several women relatives. He admitted he knew Ruth Howard, but denied that he knew her to be a but denied that he knew her to be a transgressor. Assistant District Attor-ney James E. Smith then read testimony given by Bornkessel at his Police De-partment trial, when he said he had sten Loeb "chase her off Broadway" several times. Bornkessel admitted that he had said this, but again denied he knew the woman was a transgressor in spite of this. The trial will continue this

In the most friendly way I wish to disagree as to the advisability of stocking with pheasants they are doing splendidly in my section of the State, and outside of a few rabbits pheasants are about all we have to hunt in the way of game.

Let us have more game wardens by all means: They, with the help of decent hunters will help to keep the hens from being killed.

Also the killing of mink at any time of the year will do a very great deal toward rhelping out with the pheasant population of the State.

If the legislators at Trenton could see the remains of a game bird's nest after a visit from a mink there would be no closed season on those miserable ittic animals.
